FTC Commissioner J. Thomas Rosch to Address
14th Annual Symposium on Antitrust

ARLINGTON, Va. –Earlier today, Federal Trade Commissioner J. Thomas Rosch addressed the George Mason Law Review's 14th Annual Symposium on Antitrust at the Willard InterContinental in Washington, D.C. The program, titled “Horizontal Market Power: The Evolving Law and Economics of Mergers and Cartels”, was sponsored by Navigant Economics and O'Melveny & Myers LLP.

The Symposium also featured two sets of panels. The first panel addressed the impact of the 2010 Horizontal Merger Guidelines on the litigation of merger cases. The second panel addressed current trends in criminal cartel enforcement.

“The event was a great success, and we were fortunate to have so many distinguished participants, as well as such supportive sponsors. The Law Review hopes to continue that tradition at future symposia,” said Geoffrey Fehling, Editor-in-Chief of the George Mason Law Review.

Speakers included Howard Shelanski, Deputy Director for Antitrust, Bureau of Economics, Federal Trade Commission; Lisa Phelan, Chief, National Criminal Enforcement Section, U.S. Department of Justice and Kevin Murphy, the George J. Stigler Distinguished Service Professor of Economics at the University of Chicago.
